Angut runs out of his house with a big smile on his face. It is his favourite kind of day. The sun is warm, and it is just windy enough to keep the bugs away. He puts his helmet on, picks up his bike, and rides off to find his friend Papak.

Angut bikes over to the school playground, careful to stay to the side of the road. The playground is full of kids from all over town. School is out for the summer, but the kids love to come to the school to play on the playground!

<<ᒃ ᐅᑕᖅᑭᑦᖅ ᐊᖓᓕᒃ ᐱᓐᖓᐊᖅᐸᓕᒥ ᓄᓕᒋᑐᑐᒃ.

Papak is waiting for Angut at the playground.

"Hey, Angut! Want to play tag?" Papak calls.

"Sure! You're it!" Angut drops his bike beside Papak's and starts running.

Angut and Papak run around the playground, laughing.

Papak yells to Angut, “Look, a hikhik!” Angut sees a hikhik pop up by the playground.

The boys chase the hikhik, but it darts behind a sea can and disappears.

“Hikhiks are so fast!” Angut says.

Sweat drips from Angut’s forehead. He stops to catch his breath and peels off his jacket. “Hey, let’s bike down to the boat dock to cool off!”

“Sure!” says Papak.

They pick up their bikes and ride down to the boat dock.
The cool breeze rushes against their bodies.

At the boat dock, Angut sees his auntie, uncle, and cousins playing in the sand. Kids swim in the water with their floaties. A family loads their boat into the water, ready to go seal hunting and fishing for the day.

Angut and Papak wave as they speed by.

“Want to keep biking?” calls Papak over his shoulder.

“Okay,” says Angut, eager to cool off some more.

They bike past the police station and continue down the back road, waving at the people fishing. As they zoom by, a girl pulls a char up out of the water with her fishing rod.

The boys pedal to the campground. They see a group of paddlers from Coppermine River setting up their tents. Two canoes with people from out of town float along the ocean. It looks like they are enjoying the sun as they fish together.

Angut and Papak wave. The visitors wave back.

They love to greet new visitors to their town, find out where they are from, and share stories about their town and culture.

Angut spots his Nana and Baba cooking over the fire pit at an Elders’ gathering. He slows his bike.

“Let’s stop and say hi!” he calls to Papak.

His Nana sees them and greets them with a smile. “Come eat, boys!” she says.

The boys sit and enjoy a hot dog with some char soup. They listen to the Elders share stories.

Angut loves listening to Elders tell hunting and fishing stories from when they were young. He can't believe there was a time when they didn't have cars and trucks in town!

Angut leans in closer as Nana shares a story.

Let's Talk!

Asking questions encourages young children to think about the story. Next time you read the story, consider asking the following questions:

- What do you think Angut and Papak will do together?
- Why did the hikhik run away from the boys?
- What are the people at the boat dock doing?
- Why do the boys wave at the visitors?
- Why does Angut like to hear the Elders' stories?
- What do you think was the most fun part of Angut's day?
- What do you like to do on a summer day?

Bike Ride around Your Community

Plan a bike ride around your own community. If you are unable to go on a bike ride, you can plan a walk, ATV ride, snowmobile ride, or something similar.

1. Invite your child to go on a bike ride with you.
2. Plan a route around your community. Together, think of fun places that you can stop and visit. Use the places Angut and Papak visit as inspiration.
3. Go on the bike ride and have a great time together!

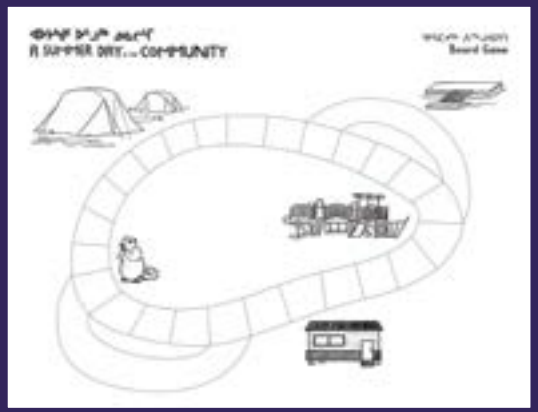
A Summer Day in the Community Board Game



This game will challenge your child to move around the game board as Angut or Papak and experience the places in Kugluktuk the boys visit.

Directions

1. Download and print the A Summer Day in the Community Board Game from inhabiteducation.com.
2. Have your child colour and cut out the board game characters (Angut and Papak) and the game board. (Assist as needed.)
3. Find a set of dice to use for the game.
4. You and your child should each choose a character and place the characters on the "Start" spot.
5. Explain to your child that you will take turns rolling the dice and moving the corresponding number of squares. Point out the special spaces on the board:

    - Playground space: If you land on the playground space, you miss a turn because you stay and play on the playground.
    - Hikhik crossing: If you land on the hikhik crossing, you take the long way around to get to the boat dock because the hikhik is blocking the road.
    - Boat dock: If you land on the boat dock, you can take the short cut to the campground.
    - Campground: If you land on the campground, you miss a turn because you stay to listen to the Elders' stories.

6. Begin the game and assist as needed.

Inuinnaqtun Glossary

Notes on Inuinnaqtun pronunciation: There are some sounds in Inuinnaqtun that may be unfamiliar to English speakers. The pronunciations below convey those sounds in the following ways:

- A double vowel (for example, aa, ee) creates a long vowel sound.
- Capitalized letters indicate the emphasis.
- ŋ is a sound similar to the "ng" in the word "sing."
- q is a "uvular" sound, which is a sound that comes from the very back of the throat (the uvula). This is different from the k sound, which is the same as the typical English k sound.

Angut A-ŋut	name
hikhik HIK-hik	ground squirrel
quana QUA-na	thank you
qulliq QUL-liq	oil lamp
Papak PA-pak	name
